

TSSW Awarded $2.27 Grant to Address Burnout in Health Care Workers

April 07, 2023 11:11 AM

Burnout is a serious problem among health care workers, and the Tulane School of Social Work is using a new $2.27 million grant to address the issue. (Photo by Paula Burch-Celentano)

Health care workers experience alarming levels of burnout, low job satisfaction, and compassion fatigue, leading to poor behavioral health outcomes for themselves and contributing to increased health disparities for the communities they serve.

The Tulane University School of Social Work (TSSW) plans to address these issues as part of a $2.27 million grant from the U.S. Health Resources and Services Administration.

READ ARTICLE